Month 6: Money and Responsibility

Money is a trust and a test. This month you learn to think about it the way Islām teaches and to handle it with skill.

The month's challenge

Track every naira for 21 days and give one act of ṣadaqah each week.

Week 1 Money as a trust

Deen: Ḥalāl earning

Allah has permitted trade and forbidden ribā (al-Baqarah 2:275). Honest work and fair dealing make wealth blessed; cheating, interest and gambling destroy it.

Try it this week

List three ḥalāl ways a teenager can earn and three things to avoid, and discuss them with a parent.

My notes and questions

.....

.....

Educational Development: The maths of money

Percentages, addition and simple division are the tools of money. You use them for discounts, savings and budgets.

Try it this week

Work out 10% and 20% of three prices you saw this week.

My notes and questions

.....

.....

Skills: Write a budget

A budget is a plan for your money: what comes in, what goes out, what is left. A simple table is enough.

Try it this week

Make a one-month budget for any allowance or income you have, using a notebook or a spreadsheet.

My notes and questions

Personal Development: Needs and wants

Needs keep you alive and learning; wants make life nicer. Telling them apart is the first step in spending well.

Try it this week

Go through your last five purchases and label each a need or a want.

My notes and questions

Week 2 Saving

Deen: Balance and moderation

The servants of the Most Merciful are those who spend neither wastefully nor stingily, but a fair amount between the two (al-Furqān 25:67).

Try it this week

Review one purchase you regret and one you are glad of, and note the lesson.

My notes and questions

.....

.....

Educational Development: Saving for a goal

A target and a date make saving real. If a goal costs ₦12,000 in six months, you need to save ₦2,000 a month.

Try it this week

Choose a goal, work out its monthly amount and write it down.

My notes and questions

.....

.....

Week 2: Saving (continued)

Skills: Tracking spending

Write down what you spend for a month. Most people are surprised where the money goes.

Try it this week

Track every naira you spend for seven days in a notebook or phone note.

My notes and questions

.....

.....

.....

Personal Development: Delayed gratification

The ability to wait for a bigger reward predicts success. Waiting 24 hours before buying removes most impulse purchases.

Try it this week

Use the 24-hour rule on the next non-essential thing you want to buy.

Week 3 Giving

Deen: Ṣadaqah

The Prophet ﷺ said charity does not decrease wealth (Muslim 2588). Even a smile or half a date is ṣadaqah, and giving purifies the heart.

Try it this week

Give a small amount or an act of service as ṣadaqah this week and keep it private.

My notes and questions

Educational Development: Comparing value

Value is not the same as price. Compare prices, quality and how long a thing will last before you buy.

Try it this week

Compare two similar items and decide which is better value, and why.

My notes and questions

Week 3: Giving (continued)

Skills: Polite bargaining

Respectful bargaining is a skill: know the fair price, be friendly, be ready to walk away and never lie.

Try it this week

Role-play buying something with a family member, practising a polite request for a better price.

My notes and questions

Personal Development: Contentment

Qanāʿah, contentment, is being satisfied with what Allah has given while still working for more. It protects you from envy.

Try it this week

Each night this week, write one thing you already have that you are grateful for.

My notes and questions

Week 4 Earning

Deen: Amānah in business

A trader must be honest about his goods. Trustworthiness is the basis of lasting customers and of Allah's blessing in what you earn.

Try it this week

Write three rules of honesty you would keep if you sold something.

My notes and questions

.....

.....

.....

Educational Development: From problem to product

Good business ideas begin with a real problem that people will pay to solve. Ask what annoys the people around you.

Try it this week

List three problems in your area and one idea that might solve each.

My notes and questions

.....

.....

.....

Week 4: Earning (continued)

Skills: Price and record

To price something, add up your costs and add a fair profit. Write down every sale and expense.

Try it this week

Pick a simple product and work out its cost, price and profit per item.

My notes and questions

.....

.....

.....

Personal Development: Own your choices

Responsibility means saying “I decided this” instead of blaming. It is the mark of someone ready for adult life.

Try it this week

Write about one recent choice you made, what it cost, and what you learned.

A page for parents

Give your teenager a small, real amount to manage and let them make small mistakes. Talk openly about ḥalāl income and how your family decides what to buy, and warn about betting apps and “quick money” schemes.

- What the monthly report shows. Your teenager’s facilitator sends a report each month with attendance, a rating for each of the four pillars, assignments handed in and a personal note.
- Three questions to ask this month. What did you learn that surprised you? Which session helped you most, and why? What is one thing I can do to support you?
- How to help. A calm place and time to study, early nights, and your interest. Praise effort and honesty more than marks.

رَبَّنَا هَبْ لَنَا مِنْ أَزْوَاجِنَا وَذُرِّيَّاتِنَا قُرَّةَ أَعْيُنٍ وَاجْعَلْنَا لِلْمُتَّقِينَ إِمَامًا

“Our Lord, grant us from our spouses and offspring comfort to our eyes and make us a leader for the righteous.”

Al-Furqān 25:74

Month 7: Friends and Influence. Choose well, stand firm, forgive and be a good friend.
