رَّضِيَ اللَّهُ عَنْهُمْ وَرَضُوا عَنْهُ

"Allah is pleased with them, and they are pleased with Him." (at-Tawbah 9:100)

The Ten Promised Paradise

Al-ʿAsharah al-Mubashsharūn: ten Companions given glad tidings of Paradise by name.

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَٰنِ الرَّحِيمِ

Before you begin

The Prophet ﷺ gave glad tidings of Paradise to many of his Companions. But on one occasion he named ten of them together, in a single sentence, and the Ummah has called them ever since al-ʿAsharah al-Mubashsharūn bil-Jannah: the ten given glad tidings of Paradise.

> أَبُو بَكْرٍ فِي الْجَنَّةِ، وَعُمَرُ فِي الْجَنَّةِ، وَعُثْمَانُ فِي الْجَنَّةِ، وَعَلِيٌّ فِي الْجَنَّةِ، وَطَلْحَةُ فِي الْجَنَّةِ، وَالزُّبَيْرُ فِي الْجَنَّةِ، وَعَبْدُ الرَّحْمَنِ بْنُ عَوْفٍ فِي الْجَنَّةِ، وَسَعْدٌ فِي الْجَنَّةِ، وَسَعِيدٌ فِي الْجَنَّةِ، وَأَبُو عُبَيْدَةَ بْنُ الْجَرَّاحِ فِي الْجَنَّةِ
> “Abū Bakr is in Paradise, ʿUmar is in Paradise, ʿUthmān is in Paradise, ʿAlī is in Paradise, Ṭalḥah is in Paradise, az-Zubayr is in Paradise, ʿAbd ar-Raḥmān ibn ʿAwf is in Paradise, Saʿd is in Paradise, Saʿīd is in Paradise, and Abū ʿUbaydah ibn al-Jarrāḥ is in Paradise.”
> Narrated by at-Tirmidhī (3747) from ʿAbd ar-Raḥmān ibn ʿAwf, and by Abū Dāwūd (4649) and at-Tirmidhī (3757) from Saʿīd ibn Zayd. Authentic.

All ten were of Quraysh, all were among the earliest to accept Islām, all were Muhājirūn, and all but one or two fought at Badr. Six of them were the council (shūrā) ʿUmar named to choose the caliph after him. This does not mean that only these ten are promised Paradise: the Prophet ﷺ gave the same glad tidings to others, such as Khadījah, Bilāl, al-Ḥasan and al-Ḥusayn, Thābit ibn Qays, the people of Badr and those who pledged under the tree. But these ten were named together.

How this book tells their stories

The four rightly guided caliphs have their own book from the Himaayah Madrasah, The Four Rightly Guided Caliphs, so they are introduced here more briefly. The other six have fuller chapters.

Events are taken from the Qur’an, the authentic ḥadīth with sources, and the books of sīrah and history, such as Ibn Saʿd and adh-Dhahabī. Reports that come only from these books are marked as such.

The ten at a glance name, clan of Quraysh, and year of death

1 أبو بكر الصديق Abū Bakr Taym · d. 13 AH	2 عمر بن الخطاب ʿUmar ʿAdī · d. 23 AH	3 عثمان بن عفان ʿUthmān Umayyah · d. 35 AH	4 علي بن أبي طالب ʿAlī Hāshim · d. 40 AH	5 طلحة بن عبيد الله Ṭalḥah Taym · d. 36 AH

Part 1 The four rightly guided caliphs

A moment on the mountain

Anas said: the Prophet ﷺ climbed Uḥud with Abū Bakr, ʿUmar and ʿUthmān, and the mountain shook. He said: “Be firm, Uḥud, for on you are a Prophet, a Ṣiddīq and two martyrs” (al-Bukhārī, 3675). And Abū Hurayrah reported that he was on Ḥirāʾ with Abū Bakr, ʿUmar, ʿUthmān, ʿAlī, Ṭalḥah, az-Zubayr and Saʿd, and the rock moved, and he said: “Be still, for on you is none but a Prophet, a Ṣiddīq or a martyr” (Muslim, 2417). Every one of them was later killed in the path of Allah, except the Prophet ﷺ, Abū Bakr and Saʿd.

Abū Bakr aṣ-Ṣiddīq

أَبُو بَكْرٍ الصِّدِّيقُ

The first free man to accept Islām, the Prophet’s ﷺ companion in the cave of Thawr and in every battle, and the first caliph (11–13 AH). He freed tortured slaves, gave all his wealth for Tabūk, held the Ummah together on the day the Prophet ﷺ died and in the wars of apostasy, and had the Qur’an gathered into one book.

> “If I were to take a khalīl (closest friend) other than my Lord, I would have taken Abū Bakr, but he is my brother and my companion” (al-Bukhārī, 3656).
>
> One of his virtues in the authentic ḥadīth.

ʿUmar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb

عُمَرُ بْنُ الْخَطَّابِ

Al-Fārūq, whose Islām made the Muslims strong. Second caliph (13–23 AH), under whom Syria, Iraq, Persia, Jerusalem and Egypt opened, the Hijrī calendar was begun and the state was built on justice and consultation. He was martyred while leading the Fajr prayer.

> “O son of al-Khaṭṭāb, Shayṭān never meets you on a road except that he takes a road other than yours” (al-Bukhārī 3683, Muslim 2396).
>
> One of his virtues in the authentic ḥadīth.

ʿUthmān ibn ʿAffān

عُثْمَانُ بْنُ عَفَّانَ

Dhun-Nūrayn, “the one with two lights”, who married two daughters of the Prophet ﷺ, Ruqayyah and then Umm Kulthūm. He bought the well of Rūmah for the Muslims, equipped the army of Tabūk, and as third caliph (23–35 AH) united the Ummah on one standard muṣḥaf. He was martyred in his house, reciting the Qur'an, refusing to let the Companions shed blood to defend him.

> "Should I not feel shy before a man before whom the angels feel shy?" (Muslim, 2401).
>
> One of his virtues in the authentic ḥadīth.

ʿAlī ibn Abī Ṭālib

عَلِيُّ بْنُ أَبِي طَالِبٍ

The Prophet's ﷺ cousin, raised in his house, the first child to accept Islām, husband of Fāṭimah and father of al-Ḥasan and al-Ḥusayn. He slept in the Prophet's ﷺ bed on the night of the Hijrah, carried the flag at Khaybar, and was the fourth caliph (35–40 AH), a judge and scholar of the first rank. He was martyred in Kūfah.

> "Are you not pleased to be to me as Hārūn was to Mūsā, except that there is no prophet after me?" (al-Bukhārī 3706, Muslim 2404).
>
> One of his virtues in the authentic ḥadīth.

Companion 1 Ṭalḥah ibn ʿUbaydillāh

طَلْحَةُ بْنُ عُبَيْدِ اللَّهِ

Of Banū Taym, the clan of Abū Bakr; known as Ṭalḥah al-Khayr, Ṭalḥah the Generous

Lineage and title

Accepted Islām	Among the first eight, through Abū Bakr
Badr	Sent on a mission outside Madinah; the Prophet ﷺ gave him his share of the reward and spoils
Famous for	Shielding the Prophet ﷺ at Uḥud
Died	Killed at the Battle of the Camel, 36 AH, near Baṣrah

Ṭalḥah accepted Islām as a young merchant, and his own family tied him and Abū Bakr together with a rope to force them to leave it. His great day was Uḥud. When the Muslims scattered and the Prophet ﷺ was surrounded, Ṭalḥah stood before him, taking the arrows and blows meant for him, until his hand was paralysed (al-Bukhārī, 3724). The Prophet ﷺ said that day: "Ṭalḥah has made it obligatory," meaning Paradise (at-Tirmidhī, 1692). Abū Bakr, when he spoke of Uḥud, would say: "That was the day of Ṭalḥah."

مَنْ سَرَّهُ أَنْ يَنْظُرَ إِلَى شَهِيدٍ يَمْشِي عَلَى وَجْهِ الْأَرْضِ فَلْيَنْظُرْ إِلَى طَلْحَةَ بْنِ عُبَيْدِ اللَّهِ

"Whoever would like to look at a martyr walking on the face of the earth, let him look at Ṭalḥah ibn ʿUbaydillāh."

At-Tirmidhī (3739); Ibn Mājah (125).

He was one of the richest of the Companions and one of the most generous; the sīrah books tell how he once received a fortune in the evening, could not sleep while it was in his house, and gave it all away before morning. After the murder of ʿUthmān, he went to Baṣrah seeking justice for ʿUthmān, and was killed at the Battle of the Camel, on the day the two groups of believers met through the plotting of others. It is reported that ʿAlī sat by his body, wiped the dust from his face and wept.

Lessons from his life

- Protect the truth with your own body, if needed, as Ṭalḥah protected the Prophet ﷺ.
- Wealth is a means to give, not a thing to hold on to.

Companion 2 Az-Zubayr ibn al-ʿAwwām

الزُّبَيْرُ بْنُ الْعَوَّامِ

Of Banū Asad; son of Ṣafiyyah bint ʿAbd al-Muṭṭalib, the Prophet's ﷺ aunt, and husband of Asmāʾ bint Abī Bakr

Lineage

Accepted Islām	As a boy, among the first; his uncle tried to smoke him out of Islām
Battles	Every battle with the Prophet ﷺ; later al-Yarmūk and Egypt
Title	Ḥawārī Rasūlillāh, the disciple of the Messenger of Allah
Died	Killed after leaving the Battle of the Camel, 36 AH

Az-Zubayr was the Prophet's ﷺ cousin, and the sīrah books say he was the first to draw a sword in the path of Allah, as a boy in Makkah, when he heard a rumour that the Prophet ﷺ had been killed. He emigrated to Abyssinia and to Madinah, and fought in every battle. At the Trench, when the Prophet ﷺ asked who would bring news of the enemy, az-Zubayr volunteered three times, and the Prophet ﷺ said:

إِنَّ لِكُلِّ نَبِيٍّ حَوَارِيًّا، وَحَوَارِيَّ الزُّبَيْرُ

"Every prophet has a disciple, and my disciple is az-Zubayr."

Al-Bukhārī (2846, 3719) and Muslim (2415). On another day he said to him: "May my father and mother be your ransom" (al-Bukhārī, 3720).

At al-Yarmūk he charged alone through the Roman lines and back, and carried the scars for life. He was wealthy through trade and, though he had many slaves, he gave away what came to him. At the Battle of the Camel, ʿAlī reminded him of something the Prophet ﷺ had said to him, and he left the field; on his way, he was killed treacherously while praying, by a man named Ibn Jurmūz. When the killer came to ʿAlī expecting a reward, ʿAlī said: "Give the killer of the son of Ṣafiyyah the tidings of the Fire" (Aḥmad).

Lessons from his life

- Volunteer first when the call comes.
- Leaving a fight when reminded of the truth takes greater courage than entering it.

Companion 3 ʿAbd ar-Raḥmān ibn ʿAwf

عَبْدُ الرَّحْمَنِ بْنُ عَوْفٍ

Of Banū Zuhrah, the clan of the Prophet's ﷺ mother

Lineage

Accepted Islām	Among the first eight, through Abū Bakr
Hijrahs	To Abyssinia, then to Madinah
Famous for	His trade, his charity, and choosing ʿUthmān as caliph
Died	In Madinah, 32 AH; buried in al-Baqīʿ

When ʿAbd ar-Raḥmān arrived in Madinah with nothing, the Prophet ﷺ made him the brother of Saʿd ibn ar-Rabīʿ of the Anṣār. Saʿd offered him half of his wealth, and one of his two wives in marriage after a divorce. ʿAbd ar-Raḥmān said: "May Allah bless you in your family and your wealth. Show me the way to the market" (al-Bukhārī 2048, 3780). He traded, prospered, and became one of the wealthiest men of Madinah, and one of the most generous: the sīrah books speak of caravans of hundreds of camels given away, and of the large sums he left for the people of Badr and for the Mothers of the Believers.

On the expedition of Tabūk, when the Prophet ﷺ was delayed, the people put ʿAbd ar-Raḥmān forward to lead the Fajr prayer, and the Prophet ﷺ arrived and prayed behind him, and praised them (Muslim, 274). ʿUmar named him one of the six of the shūrā. ʿAbd ar-Raḥmān withdrew his own name, consulted the people of Madinah for three days and nights, and gave the pledge to ʿUthmān (al-Bukhārī, 3700). Near the end of his life, food was brought to him while he was fasting, and he wept: "Muṣʿab ibn ʿUmayr was killed, and he was better than me, and was shrouded in a cloak too short to cover him… then this world was spread out for us. I fear our good deeds were hastened for us in this world" (al-Bukhārī, 1274).

Lessons from his life

- Self-reliance and dignity: "Show me the market."
- Wealth in the hand, not in the heart: the rich can be among the people of Paradise.
- Fear that your reward has been given in this world keeps you humble.

Companion 4 Saʿd ibn Abī Waqqāṣ

سَعْدُ بْنُ أَبِي وَقَّاصٍ

Of Banū Zuhrah; a maternal relative of the Prophet ﷺ, who said: "This is my uncle; let anyone show me an uncle like him" (at-Tirmidhī, 3752)

Lineage

Accepted Islām	At about seventeen, among the first
Famous for	Archery; commanding the army at al-Qādisiyyah; his answered duʿāʾ
Governor	Founded al-Kūfah, and governed it under ʿUmar
Died	At his estate at al-ʿAqīq near Madinah, about 55 AH: the last of the Muhājirūn to die

When Saʿd accepted Islām, his mother swore she would neither eat nor drink until he left it. He said: “Mother, if you had a hundred souls and they left you one by one, I would not leave my religion,” and she ate. Allah revealed: “But if they strive to make you associate with Me what you have no knowledge of, do not obey them, but accompany them in this world with kindness” (Luqmān 31:15; Muslim 1748).

Saʿd was the first of the Arabs to shoot an arrow in the path of Allah (al-Bukhārī, 3728). At Uḥud he stood beside the Prophet ﷺ shooting arrow after arrow, and the Prophet ﷺ said to him: “Shoot, may my father and mother be your ransom” (al-Bukhārī, 4055). The Prophet ﷺ prayed: “O Allah, answer Saʿd when he supplicates to You” (at-Tirmidhī, 3751), and his duʿāʾ became famous. When a man in Kūfah falsely accused him of injustice, Saʿd prayed against him if he was lying, and the man lived to a wretched old age (al-Bukhārī, 755).

He led the Muslims at al-Qādisiyyah and opened al-Madāʾin, the capital of Persia. In the Farewell Ḥajj he fell ill and asked if he could give away most of his wealth; the Prophet ﷺ said: “A third, and a third is much. To leave your heirs rich is better than to leave them dependent on people” (al-Bukhārī 1295, Muslim 1628). In the trials after ʿUthmān he stayed away from the fighting. He was the last of the ten to die.

Lessons from his life

- Kindness to parents, but no obedience in disobeying Allah.
- Guard your duʿāʾ by eating what is lawful.
- In times of trial, keeping away from fighting among Muslims can be the wiser path.

Companion 5 Saʿīd ibn Zayd

سَعِيدُ بْنُ زَيْدٍ

Of Banū ʿAdī; cousin of ʿUmar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb and husband of his sister Fāṭimah

Lineage

Father	Zayd ibn ʿAmr ibn Nufayl, a ḥanīf who rejected the idols before Islām
Accepted Islām	Among the first, with his wife Fāṭimah
Badr	Sent on a mission; given his share of the spoils and reward
Died	At al-ʿAqīq, about 51 AH; buried in Madinah

Saʿīd's father, Zayd ibn ʿAmr, lived before Islām and refused to worship idols or eat what was sacrificed to them. He would lean against the Kaʿbah and say: "O Quraysh, none of you follows the religion of Ibrāhīm except me," and he rescued baby girls who were about to be buried alive and raised them himself (al-Bukhārī, 3828). He died before the Prophethood, and the Prophet ﷺ said he would be raised as a nation on his own.

His son Saʿīd accepted Islām early with his wife Fāṭimah bint al-Khaṭṭāb. It was in their house that ʿUmar, coming in anger, struck his sister, then read the page of Sūrat Ṭā Hā that changed his life. Saʿīd fought at Uḥud and in all the later battles, and at al-Yarmūk under Abū ʿUbaydah. He was the narrator of one version of the ḥadīth of the ten, in which he counted himself as the tenth only when the people pressed him.

In his old age, a woman named Arwā accused him of taking part of her land. He said: "Would I take her land after what I heard from the Messenger of Allah ﷺ: whoever takes a hand-span of land unjustly will have it hung around his neck from seven earths on the Day of Resurrection?" He prayed: "O Allah, if she is lying, blind her and let her die in her land." She became blind and fell into a well on her land and died (Muslim, 1610).

Lessons from his life

- A righteous father's search for truth can bear fruit in his children.
- Humility: he did not mention his own virtue until pressed.
- Never take what is not yours, not even a hand-span of land.

Companion 6 Abū ʿUbaydah ibn al-Jarrāḥ

أَبُو عُبَيْدَةَ بْنُ الْجَرَّاحِ

ʿĀmir ibn ʿAbdillāh, of Banū al-Ḥārith ibn Fihr of Quraysh

Name and lineage

Accepted Islām	Among the first, through Abū Bakr
Title	Amīn hādhihi al-Ummah, the Trustworthy One of this Ummah
Commander	Commander-in-chief in Shām; led the Muslims at al-Yarmūk
Died	In the plague of ʿAmwās in Shām, 18 AH

> إِنَّ لِكُلِّ أُمَّةٍ أَمِينًا، وَإِنَّ أَمِينَنَا أَيَّتُهَا الْأُمَّةُ أَبُو عُبَيْدَةَ بْنُ الْجَرَّاحِ
>
> “Every nation has a trustworthy one, and our trustworthy one, O Ummah, is Abū ʿUbaydah ibn al-Jarrāḥ.”
> Al-Bukhārī (3744) and Muslim (2419).

When the Christians of Najrān asked for a truly trustworthy man to be sent with them, the Prophet ﷺ said: “I will send with you a man who is truly trustworthy,” and every Companion hoped it would be him; he sent Abū ʿUbaydah (al-Bukhārī, 4381). The sīrah books tell how at Uḥud he pulled out, with his teeth, the rings of the helmet driven into the Prophet’s ﷺ cheek, losing two front teeth. He led the expedition of al-Khabaṭ, when the army ate leaves and the sea gave them a great fish (al-Bukhārī, 4361).

Under ʿUmar he became commander of all the armies in Shām, where he led the Muslims at al-Yarmūk and received Damascus and other cities. It is reported that when ʿUmar visited him in Shām, he found in his house nothing but his sword, his shield and his saddle, and ʿUmar wept: “The world has changed all of us except you, Abū ʿUbaydah.” When the plague of ʿAmwās struck, ʿUmar wrote asking him to come to Madinah; Abū ʿUbaydah understood that ʿUmar wanted to save him, and refused to leave his soldiers. He died in the plague. ʿUmar later said that if Abū ʿUbaydah had been alive, he would have named him as his successor (Aḥmad).

Lessons from his life

- Trustworthiness is a rank in itself.
- Humility in high office: the commander of the armies owned a sword, a shield and a saddle.
- Stand with those you lead in their hardest hour.

Part 2 How we speak of the Companions

Ahl as-Sunnah wal-Jamāʿah love all the Companions, speak of them only with good, and believe that the ten are in Paradise, as the Prophet ﷺ told us. The Prophet ﷺ said: “Do not revile my Companions. By the One in whose hand is my soul, if one of you spent gold equal to Uḥud, it would not reach a mudd of one of them, nor half of it” (al-Bukhārī 3673, Muslim 2541).

Ṭalḥah and az-Zubayr died in the trials (al-fitnah) that followed the murder of ʿUthmān, on the opposite side from ʿAlī at the Battle of the Camel. Ahl as-Sunnah hold that all of them were seeking the truth by their own judgement (ijtihād), that none of them wanted the fighting, which broke out through the plotting of others, and that the one who judged rightly has two rewards and the one who erred has one. We do not dig into what happened between them except to learn and to defend them, and we say what Allah taught us: “Our Lord, forgive us and our brothers who preceded us in faith, and put not in our hearts any resentment toward those who have believed” (al-Ḥashr 59:10).

3. Trustworthiness and humility, even with power and riches.
4. Love the Companions and guard your tongue about them.

5	Glad tidings did not make them lazy: they kept striving until death, fearing for their deeds.
